500,000 feared dead

Bodies lay everywhere; 3-M people need help

PORT-AU-PRINCE, HAITI—TURNING PICKUP trucks into ambulances and dogs into stretchers, Haitians are frantically struggling to save those injured in Tuesday's devastating earthquake while hoping foreign governments will quickly send in aid.

World scrambles to help Haiti

BEIJING—CITING THEIR OWN experiences with natural disasters, Asian leaders on Thursday offered help to quake-stricken Haiti as part of a massive international effort to alleviate the effects of the catastrophe.

Red Cross estimated that some 3 million people will require aid, ranging from shelter to food and clean water, and said many Haitians could need Haitian President Benoit Prévost said the 7.0-magnitude quake may have killed thousands, while leaving tens of thousands injured. The Associated Press the death toll could reach 500,000.

Both officials, however, conceded that nobody really knew how many had died. "Let's say that it's too early to give a number," Prévost told CNN.

Bodies lay everywhere in Port-au-Prince: tiny children next to schools, women in rubble-strewn streets with strained expressions frozen on their faces, men hidden beneath plastic tarps and cotton cloths.

A FILIPINO SOLDIER used his cell phone to lead rescuers to his rescue in the basement of a collapsed hotel, but those of his comrades remained trapped in the UN building toppled by Tuesday's powerful quake in Haiti, the military said yesterday.

In a phone call to the Philippines, the head of the Philippine contingent to Haiti, Lt. Col. Lope Dagao, said Capt. David Caceresan was rescued by his troops from the wreckage of Hotel Montana before noon yesterday.

Caceresan suffered injuries and was transported to the barracks of the Philippine con-

Big One sure to come; question is when, are we prepared?

By Nicolas Papa

THE 7.0-MAGNITUDE EARTHQUAKE that struck Haiti a few days ago can happen in Metro

Manila, according to seismologists and geologists.

The question is, are we prepared?

It appears that we are not,

Experts said preparations should begin in earnest to avert major damage to be caused by the big one.

Director Renato Solidum of the Philippine Institute of Volcanology and Seismology (PHIVOLCS) said, "A strong earthquake can happen" in Metro Manila at any time in the country.

He noted that a 7.0-magnitude earthquake struck Luzon in 1990 and a 7.5 magnitude

SWS: People power looms if election fails

ANOTHER PEOPLE POWER revolt could happen should the 2010 national elections fail.

This is what almost half of a survey by Social Weather Stations (SWS) released yesterday. The nationwide survey, conducted on Oct. 24-27, posed the following scenario in respondents: "If the 2010 elections fail for any reason, e.g., malfeasance of the outgoing machines, then people power will probably happen already."

Forty-one percent agreed with the statement, while 22 percent disagreed.

Lawyer: GMA drops Ampatuans like hot potato

DAVAO CITY—A LAWYER of the powerful Ampatuans has come out swinging against the women who, he said, the clan helped make President.

Philip Panaguan said Malabon charged dropped the Ampatuans like a hot potato—and even backed the filing of rebellion charges against them despite the purported lack of evidence—an effort to save face.

Speaking with reporters on Wednesday, Panaguan said the Ampatuans were surprised that President Macapagal-Arroyo's administration turned its back on them despite the purported benefits it had received from the clan.

"The government is like Cendrillon or Snow White ... [It wants to] live happily ever after," he said.

Panaguan said Malabon had forgotten that the influence of the clan led by Social Aquino Sr. helped make "Gloria" President in 2004.

He pointed out that the Ampatuans' base province of Maguindanao produced a nominee for actor Fernando Poe Jr., the opposition standard-bearer, in that year's presidential election.

"The Ampatuans truly helped the First Family in so many in-

GMA can appoint CJ-Palace

MALACANANG YESTERDAY INSISTED THAT IT WAS President Macapagal-Arroyo's "right" to pick the next chief justice, despite various claims that she is constitutionally barred from doing so.

Pres Undersecretary of the Office of the President, Cesar Lim, said that it is within the president's right to appoint the next chief justice, despite the fact that the Supreme Court has ruled that she is constitutionally barred from doing so.

"The President just wants to select his right and responsibility under the law of appointing the chief justice of the Supreme Court," Lim said.

Lim said that the President is not violating the constitution by appointing the next chief justice, despite the fact that the Supreme Court has ruled that she is constitutionally barred from doing so.

Lim said that the President is not violating the constitution by appointing the next chief justice, despite the fact that the Supreme Court has ruled that she is constitutionally barred from doing so.

Supremacy is even clearer—then, hopefully, they'll be able to explain their decision based on grounds of national interest as well, at least, of second jurisdiction," he said.

Sen. Mike Saragap, the main constitutional expert of the Senate, yesterday said "only a compelling reason would justify the President's refusal to wait for the reasoning of the JSC."

Saragap said this was not convinced there was a "compelling" reason to appoint a successor to Puno before Jan 30.

If there is no compelling reason, the President should just wait for the JSC to submit a list of nominees, Saragap said.

If the process is appointing Puno's successor, law would not be violated in the interim between Puno's retirement and the appointment of a new President.

Atienza junks Noyonoy, backs Erap

By Christian Esguerra

SAID THAT THE FRIENDS of his enemy were also his enemy, former Environment Secretary Luis Atienza has rejected the candidacy of the Liberal Party's (LP) Sen. Noyonoy, saying it is to back former President Joseph Estrada of the President's Movement Pilipinas.

Atienza leads one wing of the LP. He and former Senate President Franklin Drilon, head of the other LP faction, had a falling out in 2008 over support for President Maunpong Arroyo.

Atienza is now running for the mayoralty of Manila, a position he held three years ago. He also used to be a solid supporter of Mr. Arroyo and the late President Corason Aquino, Noyonoy's rival.

The decision to junk Aquino and back Estrada was "unanimously" arrived at during a vote by some 1,500 Manila supporters who had gathered at the Associated Workers' Congress at the Perla Area in Manila yesterday.

"Only Erap has the greatest heart for the poor," Atienza said, referring to Estrada by his nickname.

Atienza said he would not tell himself to support Erap, despite his role as the candidate of the LP faction that ousted him from the party.

"The threat of your enemy is more serious," he said. "If you cannot enter the party, how can you expect to enter the congress?"

The Liberal Party belonged to the coalition of President Arroyo but split into two factions in the run-up of the "14th Congress" session of 2004.

Drilon and other party elites have backed Estrada's Arroyo resignation.

Then Manila Mayor Antonio Trillanes Jr. and his followers backed Mr. Arroyo and threatened to expel the Estrada wing from the party. However, the Supreme Court on April 27, 2007, upheld Drilon's leadership of the LP.

Atienza, once elected, has been placed on the list of the department for supporting Estrada when he was long ago in a more popular position of Mr. Arroyo.

"I have retired but still and I thank you for the support only but I cannot be with them (Lito Lapid group)," he said. "I am with the LP and I am for the good of the country."

Asked how he ended up supporting the Arroyo administration, he said, "We had to accept the reality that this government was necessary."

"But I have always remained friendly with Lito (Lapid) even when he was in jail. He is a nice man and I know him closely in his bid to clear his name and help the country."

Atienza arrived here at the start of the Associated Workers' Congress.

Atienza explained the support for Estrada of the city of Manila. "In said."

GMA to veto debt service cut

By GRC Citegungin

PRESIDENT MACARAPAGAN WILL have no choice but to veto the PMA bill on debt payments made by Congress in the P1.24 billion 2013 budget.

It would be "faculties irresponsible" for the President not to veto the bill, which is a violation of the country's credit rating, said President Macapagal.

He said that while the President has no choice in the budget deficit, he will have to provide a budget for debt service.

"Debt is automatically approved by the debt limit and it is not in our power, we will have to borrow money," he said. "We will have to provide a budget for debt service."

The Senate and House of Representatives will have to provide a budget for debt service from P14.6 billion to P14.6 billion.

P14.6 billion, and the PMA bill on debt payments and interest on the P14.6 billion will be vetoed by the President.

According to GMA, the veto of the bill on debt payments will not only impact on the P14.6 billion that will be vetoed but also on the country's credit rating.

The act of vetoing the bill would have a negative impact on the country's credit rating, which is a violation of the country's credit rating.

In the end, there would be more loans than before, he said.

According to GMA, the veto of the bill on debt payments will not only impact on the P14.6 billion that will be vetoed but also on the country's credit rating.

"If you will not be responsible to the people, you are going to be responsible to the people in terms of the reputation of the country and our borrowing capacity," he said.

Absentee solon wants full pay

THE MOST NOTORIOUS CHRONIC ABSENTEE of the House of Representatives, Virginia Lordeña Rep. John Lordeña, will receive his salary today, including bonuses, if he attends the last two sessions of the 14th Congress.

House Speaker Prospero Nograles announced that Lordeña, who has been personally absent from the House, paid a visit to the House of Representatives during the 14th Congress.

But since the staff handling the representative's wages and allowances were not holding the attendance list, they did not get his money, he called Nograles to help him in his predicament.

"Congress was on a Christmas break and an employee of mine was on a leave of absence," Nograles is a new message to reporters. "I just told him to please attend at least the last two sessions of the year so you can get all the papers, documents and salaries due him."

The 14th Congress will resume on Jan. 19 and adjourn on Feb. 5.

Nograles, however, did not say how much Lordeña would receive. A representative has a monthly salary of P15,000 on top of housing, communication and travel allowances, budget for office and staff, and P70 million for the Priority Development Assistance Fund (PDAF) or "pork barrel."

Lordeña, the third richest representative with a net worth of P74.27 billion, has long been known for his frequent absences in Congress which led to all debates on whether absent lawmakers should be paid for their sessions. ED C. Calalang/ABS-CBN

Ex-PNR chief faces graft rap

THE OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER has charged graft with a former general manager of the Philippine National Railway (PNR), and four other former high-ranking PNR officials for the sale of an undeveloped Dasmarang City property to 2003.

Former PNR general manager Jose M. L. Llaneta II, who is now a senator, and four others: C. Llaneta, Jr., Edgar Llaneta, Willie G. Flores, and Antonio Llaneta, were accused of approving the sale of the property to the General Llaneta Company Inc. (GLCI), a deal which allegedly cost the government P11.2 million in losses.

The Ombudsman said the accused had illegally received GLCI's offer for the interest of the PNR and their conduct showed "probable interest for personal gain."

stranded on foot into the Haitian countryside, where roads and bridges had been destroyed by the size of the damage.

Amidst the chaos, UN trucks moved in the opposite direction toward Port-au-Prince.

Calls from victims seeking help from emergency services weren't getting through because emergency hotlines did not function properly because they were not working, said officials from a telecommunications provider in Haiti.

Calls were being received sporadically. It is 20 times from the same phone, which was "jammed" in the past, said Jean-Marc Thévoz, director of Haiti's general manager of mobile services.

Help arrived Thursday

Help began arriving Thursday from the United States, with a plane carrying a Chinese search and rescue team, medical supplies and other relief supplies.

Medical supplies and other relief supplies were being sent to the Port-au-Prince area. The Red Cross estimated a third of Haiti's 7 million people may have been injured.

In the streets of the capital, survivors set up camps and piles of salvaged goods, including food being salvaged.

from the rubble.

'Thirty people will die'

"This is much worse than a hurricane," said Jean-Claude Gauthier, a doctor's assistant working at a makeshift first-aid center set up in a hotel parking lot. "Thirty people will die today."

If there were any organized efforts to distribute food or water, they were not visible on Wednesday.

The aid group Doctors Without Borders treated the wound of a two-year-old child, including food being salvaged.

thousands of people to replace the damaged buildings.

Calls, which usually had hundreds of callers, had been cut off by the damage to the phone network.

Survivors said, "deluge" and "deluge" were the words used to describe the situation.

In Port-au-Prince, most of the capital, people dug through a collapsed building, looking for survivors and other supplies.

Many of the survivors were injured, including many children, but few in a disaster parking lot as

Needed: Simpler devotion

THE LATE 19TH CENTURY IN HONOLULU was a time of religious fervor. The city was a mix of different faiths, and people were passionate about their beliefs.

But 19th-century devotion was not the same as today's. It was simpler, more direct, and more focused on the core of the faith.

Today's devotion is more complex. It is more about the outward expression of faith than the inward reality. It is more about the things we can see and touch than the things we cannot see and touch.

As Fr. Jerry Deane suggested in his TV interview the other night, while we should not believe the religious fervor of the 19th century, we should not believe the religious fervor of the 21st century either.

The 19th-century devotion was more about the things we cannot see and touch than the things we can see and touch. It was more about the core of the faith than the outward expression of faith.

A human gift over time, "The religious devotion of the 19th century is not the same as the devotion of the 21st century. It is more about the things we cannot see and touch than the things we can see and touch."

I think it is a pity that the devotion of the 19th century is not the same as the devotion of the 21st century. It is more about the things we cannot see and touch than the things we can see and touch.

Cardinal Luis Antonio Tagle, who is now the Archbishop of Manila, said in his interview the other night that the devotion of the 19th century is not the same as the devotion of the 21st century.

New investment instrument

GIVEN A CHOICE, IF MONEY IS NOT available, the majority of the country now would opt to buy land or, better still, a house and let their deposits do the same amount of work.

In what may be viewed as one virtue of splitting, the ordinary Filipino feels more satisfaction seeing his name in a local title than in a book or book.

And why not? Union is outgroups, or human maleness is, God's side over a "self" investment. The same kind of positive current in and of all banks in spite of the regulatory new money in there.

Depending on the owner's intent, real estate can either be made subject for personal use, or leased out in one's total income or profit from its production activities.

If you're one of those who look at real estate ownership as a source of great income, the recently enacted Republic Act No. 9593 may meet your objectives.

Described as "The first treaty in investment trade (BIT) Act of 2009," the law establishes the framework for an investment scheme that aims to encourage the leading and development of infrastructure projects and, at the same time, protect the investors.

A 501(c)(3) (which rhymes with "tick") is a stock corporation organized principally for the purpose of certain limited activities, such as:

Because the word "brand" has a previous meaning in other laws, its use in the law is solely for the purpose of signing it with intentionally accepted practices on the creation and handling of NADs.

A NECC is required to have a minimum paid-up capital of P800 million. Its shares can be acquired through subscription or purchase in a stock exchange.

To ensure close monitoring of its trading activities, all the shares of RE-ITs must be registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission and listed on an exchange.

No part of the listing requirements, a SEI should have a minimum of 1,000 public shareholders who own on at least 50 shares of any class of shares and which ownership, in the aggregate, represents not less than one-third of the outstanding capital stock.

Although there is no citizenship requirement for a SEC's stock ownership, the law provides that if it is owned by the Philippines, it should comply with the ownership limitations imposed by existing laws.

Compliance with the law's objective, SBCs are obliged to strategically assess their resources in real estate or real estate related business activities.

The most popular ambassador is a stylish, no-nonsense dresser who occasionally may have some strokes of whimsy

By Doreen K. Harel

AMBASSADOR KRISTIE ANN Kenney hasn't let the country get, but Lita Napocuan-Garcia already misses the American envoy.

Tall, oval and youthful, Kenney is a dressmaker for any fashion designer. Here is a woman who could just as easily pull off a Filipino dress as she could a T-shirt and jeans combo.

Others were in good-natured short pants and skirts, Kenney is the epitome of the modern working woman, a stylish but no-nonsense dresser who occasionally may have some strokes of whimsy—a cowboy hat for a road-trip with kids, for instance.

She dresses at the office, and perhaps, at the ballroom. At the center of Kenney Press

The next frontier: 3D television

Samsung leads the charge with an entire lineup of home entertainment systems—all 3D-capable

Text and photos by Checco K. Hori

IF SAMSUNG SOLD MILLIONS OF UNITS of LCD, LED and plasma TVs, the key players, digital camcorders, mobile phones, notebooks and other devices in the past year alone isn't enough evidence of Samsung's place as global market leader in consumer electronics, then surely, earning well from its parts and other industry in 2009 is.

The Korean electronics giant's presence in the past year's Consumer Electronics Show 2009 in Las Vegas, Nevada, took off with a bang as it aimed 20 CES Innovation Awards, recognition given by the Consumer Electronics Association, an organization of more 2,000 companies that make up the consumer technology industry.

The innovations, announced last year in the lead up to the 2009 CES, saw Samsung taking home more prizes than any other single company including three from the home theater category, among them, its LED-panel TV with world's first camera control and built-in 3D device.

The TV was awarded with great applause when it was presented at a press conference in the CES by its legendary president, Lee Jeon-ah, Samsung's 30th-year veteran CEO. "Goodbye, the world's first... and a 7-1 channel this year home theater system, topped similar honors."

In 2009, Samsung introduced an entire lineup of home-entertainment systems—flat-panel LCD, LED and plasma TVs, a Blu-ray player, a home theater system—that are all 3D-capable.

But as we opened the 2009 market last year, we will find the industry in a strong state of affairs this year with the widest range of 3D products for the home," announced Tim Hunter, president of Consumer Electronics Division of Samsung Electronics America (CEA).

In 2009, the company sold 2.5 million LED TVs globally. With the debut of its 3D lineup in a few weeks, Hunter expects to sell 10 million units this year.

Partnerships

Samsung isn't alone in its efforts. At the CES, it announced the company's partnership with DreamWorks and Technicolor to create greater 3D content for consumers. Technicolor CEO Frederick Ives presented Hunter with the first copy of the 3D Blu-ray disc of the DreamWorks production "Monsters vs. Aliens," which Ives secured in a 3D format.

the next frontier: 3D television.

"No company is going to lead the charge," said Dennis Hsieh, CEO of Apple, who is the first to announce a 3D TV. "We are going to wait until the market is ready."

"It is not one of the most important things that we are doing," he added. "We are going to wait until the market is ready."

By then, he says, the market will be ready. "We are going to wait until the market is ready."

"We don't put any bets on 3D technology," said Hsieh. "We are going to wait until the market is ready."

electronics, Samsung Electronics Philippines Corp. (Seppel), is planning to launch the first 3D TV in the Philippines in 2010.

"I don't believe [3D] will take the TV market in the Philippines in 2010 already but in the long run of TV technology," he added. In the Philippines, Samsung claims to be the No. 1 vendor of educational and home theater systems.

Bea Valdes makes it to 'Sex and the City,' UK Vogue—again

IT'S JUST THE KIND OF THE year but Bea Valdes is already on a roll.

That's the best of UK Vogue's September 2009 issue, where supermodel Kate Winslet wears the Filipino designer's new look on the cover, the British song has once more picked Valdes' designs for its February issue.

Shot by lucyandale.com founder Nick Knight, supermodel and cover girl Kate Winslet wears Bea Valdes' new look in a fashion spread by Lucinda Chambers.

In May, Valdes' designs will also feature on the silver screen as Carrie Bradshaw wears a couple of Bea Valdes bags on "Sex and the City: The Movie 2."

Valdes' young daughter is also named Bella.

How to wear shimmery makeup

Done well, it can reduce fine lines, wrinkles, and highlight your cheekbones

A HOT TREND THIS SEASON: no sign of waning, shimmery makeup continues to be all the rage as it makes its way to the next season.

Available and versatile, shimmer makeup will catch the optimistic spirit of the New Year. It not only gives skin a fresh, dewy glow, it also works well with high-contrast eye shadows, blushes and lip colors.

While runway models and celebrities make it look easy, applying shimmer to real life can prove a little difficult.

Knowing what shimmer to choose, how to wear it when you've got fine lines, and how to remove it are just some of 10 challenges.

Luxurious makeup artist Julia Tinsley provides solutions to these and more tips on wearing shimmer.

Highlight one feature at a time. A little shimmer does a lot to bring out

Fiber capsules for weight loss; quick fixes for post-holiday plumpies

IF YOU'VE GAINED WEIGHT during the holidays, you're not alone. Many people gain weight during the holidays, and it's not always due to overeating. Sometimes, the weight gain is due to a combination of factors, including a change in diet, a change in activity level, and a change in the body's metabolism.

Phyllis Kessler
Phyllis Kessler is a health and wellness expert. She has written several books on health and wellness, including "The 100 Best Foods for Health and Wellness" and "The 100 Worst Foods for Health and Wellness". She is also a frequent speaker at health and wellness conferences.

One of the most common reasons for weight gain is a change in diet. During the holidays, many people eat more calories than they burn. This can lead to weight gain. Another common reason for weight gain is a change in activity level. Many people are less active during the holidays, which can also lead to weight gain.

There are several ways to lose weight after the holidays. One way is to eat a healthy diet. This means eating more fruits, vegetables, and whole grains, and less processed food. Another way is to exercise more. This can be done by taking walks, doing yoga, or going to the gym.

It's important to remember that weight loss is a process. It takes time and effort to lose weight. Don't get discouraged if you don't see results right away. Just keep going, and you will eventually see the results you want.

Fiber capsules can help with weight loss by increasing the amount of fiber in your diet. Fiber helps to regulate the digestive system, which can lead to weight loss. Fiber also helps to keep you full, which can prevent overeating. There are many different brands of fiber capsules available, so it's important to choose one that works for you.

'Curated' beauty treats

STYLING
Styling is the art of creating a look that is both fashionable and functional. It involves choosing the right clothes, accessories, and hairstyles to create a cohesive look. Styling is an important part of the fashion industry, and it's something that everyone can do.

One of the most important things to remember when styling is to know your body type. This will help you choose clothes that flatter your figure. Another important thing to remember is to choose clothes that make you feel confident. If you feel good about the way you look, you'll be more likely to wear it.

Styling is a skill that can be learned. There are many books and websites that offer tips and advice on styling. You can also learn from professional stylists. The key is to practice and to have fun with it. Styling is a creative process, and it's something that everyone can enjoy.

Featured FILM of the week

Star Trek: The Motion Picture

Star Trek: The Motion Picture is the first film in the Star Trek franchise. It was released in 1979 and is the only Star Trek film to be nominated for an Academy Award. The film is a classic of the genre and is a must-see for all Star Trek fans.

From acting to game show hosting

HOW IS RICHARD GREEN DOING as Richard Green's replacement on "Steady State"? He recently watched the show several times and have come up with these observations:

First, the good news: Dingling is a real hunk and eager to please, so it isn't hard to warm up to him. From now on, he'll be the new "Steady" on "Steady State."

Next, the bad news: Dingling is a real hunk and eager to please, so it isn't hard to warm up to him. From now on, he'll be the new "Steady" on "Steady State."

What seems to be the problem? Dingling isn't a comedian. He's a hunk, but he's not funny. He's a hunk, but he's not funny. He's a hunk, but he's not funny.

Feeling the adjustment especially difficult because he's basically a one-man performance. If he really wants to be better on a TV game show, he could take his cue from the instructor example of Howie Mandel, the stand-up comic who very effectively transitioned himself into the host of the game show "Deal or No Deal."

Vampire thriller is DOA

THE ONLY REASON TO TAKE AWAY from Robert Rodriguez's horror action flick "Daybreakers" is that vampire cinema isn't the world's hottest new genre. It's still, in fact, a dead genre.

Stop losing your hair. Regain your confidence!

For most women losing hair is like losing vibrancy, self-confidence and self-esteem. And this could lead to depression, anxiety and feelings of helplessness. Stop losing your hair. If there are women like Designer Tressé Procter-Fisher and Designer Eve Sherman who fought and triumphed against hair loss - you can, too. Discover their secret.

Excuse me, guess or two about extreme styling methods could cause some hair loss. To stop this, one needs the right treatment. In the Philippines, there's only one hair loss center where advanced treatments and highly trained dermatologists are found. Somaria.

Evening. After a course of treatments, my hair regained its original volume. It's not color, more texture. I could style it any way I want to!

hair treatment to fix it. I immediately bought "Thinning" shampoos. But I was disappointed. They didn't stop my problem. Good thing I discovered

Eve, on the other hand, wanted her results for her hair. "I didn't want to use other products. I just wanted the best. When a friend recommended Somaria, I decided to give it a try. I had no more falling hair. It's back to its lush, shiny, streaming look. I have found the right doctor. Thanks to Somaria!"

best. I consider the victory a blessing in disguise. Negotiations had my stress. We now have a more powerful and wise way-out."

Which scenes from the show do you think aren't made successful?

The ones I had with Gladys were successful. However, I consider the crying moment I had with the woman who [challenges] Gladys' house, since the most unfortunate, they might be a bit. She has to properly check your blood pressure, put your compresses, have to use the apron and have to correct them. I am honored G2.

How did that change your view of women?

I had always had great respect for my women. They give us much of themselves and put very little compensation for their efforts. I learned that most of their hard work just for the money has also been to help people to need.

Once a week, we go to St. Louis Hospital in St. Louis, Louisiana. It is a show where I get to see patients being treated in the ER. I hear a lot from my visits there. They have this book on medicine that's a big help to me, especially now that I'm taking medicine for pregnancy.

going around. The book-up meeting is closer to her team's desire for her. She mentions the case of her own, which is not and confirmed in a mental institution.

How did you get Blumenthal to record the Blumenthal song?

We're very grateful to her for agreeing to do this. This is someone very close to both me and David Simon [Blumenthal]. I was told that when our producers spoke with her about the project, she immediately said yes.

ABC-GO is reportedly working on a project for you and Peter Panzer. Will you accept it?

Peter and I have been in good communication since he and Peter had the chance to sit down and talk. We often see in the media that he's not a fan. I see him whenever I appear on "60/2". He's always very kind and very professional. He's always very kind and very professional. He's always very kind and very professional.

You're now doing the movie "Hiding the Pain" with David Simon. Don't this affect your plans to get pregnant?

I've reached out with someone who's strong and healthy. I've been in a really nice, low-stress environment. I've been in a really nice, low-stress environment. I've been in a really nice, low-stress environment. I've been in a really nice, low-stress environment.
